

(Letter head "The Parliament of the Commonwealth. Parliament House, Melbourne.")

July 31, 1907

My dear Mr Inglis Clark,

I appreciate the compliment you pay me in sending me your long letter of the Judiciary Bill. I am, not unnaturally much interested in the subject, and you may rest assured that I shall read your letter with the greatest attention. In the debate which will take place on this subject I shall, of course, refrain from making use of your name, unless you specially give me leave to do so.

I am yours sincerely

W.H. Irvine
